CALL FOR PAPERS

Third International Conference for Information Systems and Design (ICID-2022)

12-13 September 2022

Overview

ICID is a global cooperation network that promotes open industry innovations in the academic environment. We focus on the practical results-based studies prepared by industry experts in Information Systems' design, deployment, and adoption. The conference also attracts the most active and talented students to present their R&D projects, create new teams, and meet people alike. The main goal of our community is the connection between universities and enterprises. ICID conference is an active scientific event with 100+ participants and guests from North America, Europe, and Asia-Pacific region. We welcome everybody to submit papers, take part in the conference and present their research results. The third ICID conference will be primarily on-site in INHA University, Tashkent, Uzbekistan with possibility of online participation.
